

5,000 PROPERTY HOLDERS WILL PETITION WATERWAY COMMISSION FOR EARLY CONSTRUCTION OF DAM

Agreement Is Near in Controversy, Leaders Believe Today

DAM WILL HELP, NOT HINDER, McHENRY MEN ARE TOLD

Settlement of the dam and water level controversy between Fox river residents in McHenry county and property holders around the chain of lakes in Lake county seemed not far distant following a mass meeting held here Monday by the Lake county group. The meeting, which was held in the Catholic tent at the south limits of Antioch, was attended by over three hundred property owners in the lake region.

Representative Wm. F. Weiss, who introduced the appropriation bill at Springfield, was present and was the chief speaker at the meeting presided over by Chas. K. Anderson. Mayor P. W. Frett of McHenry was also present and addressed the meeting. A better understanding of the attitude of the lake property holders seemed to prevail following the meeting and it is believed that eventually the controversy will be settled agreeably.

The dispute concerns the expenditure of the state appropriation of $175,000 for a new dam designated for construction between the mouth of the Fox river at Pistakee and the St. Paul railway bridge near Nipper, sink lake. There is also an appropriation of $10,000 to be spent in repairing the old dam at McHenry.

Petition Will Bear 5000 Names.

A petition bearing the names of over 5000 property holders of Lake county is to be forwarded to the state waterways commission asking that the new dam be placed at such point near Pistakee as will best conserve water levels and insure sanitary conditions, as approved by the engineers in charge. The petition also requests the commission to order repairs on the McHenry dam, making use of the $10,000 appropriated for that purpose.

More than 2,500 names have already been affixed to the resolution and at least that many more are waiting to sign. It is reported by those who are circulating the papers.

Weiss Not Worried.

Representative Weiss, who had the dam appropriations included in the omnibus bill at the last session of the outcome of the project, he told friends legislature, is not worried over the here Sunday.

Mr. Weiss explained that the appropriation went through without a dissenting voice at Springfield, the Lake county representative asking for the money after he and Wm. Mulvihill, of the rivers and harbors division of Illinois, had made a trip of inspection through the chain of lakes to obtain first-hand information regarding conditions. It is the sincere belief of Representative Weiss that in securing the appropriation he was acting for the best interests of the people of western Lake county with no thought of inflicting any injury to residents of McHenry county. The $10,000 appropriation, also recommended by Weiss, was thought to be adequate to repair the McHenry dam and thus preserve the water level from there up the river to the new dam.

Representative Stewart is censured. Roy J. Stewart, the McHenry county representative, is being severely criticized by property holders along the Fox river in McHenry county for his failure to ascertain the feeling of his constituents in that locality regarding the proposed dam, and his neglect to raise his voice in protest when the $175,000 for the building of it was included in the omnibus bill.

"I recommended the appropriations for the new dam and for the repair of the old one at McHenry because I regarded it as a necessity, and I have no apologies to make for doing what I consider a service to the people of Lake county and McHenry county," Mr. Weiss said. "The money is ready and it's up to property holders in the chain of lakes region to make use of it for the purpose in-

A. T. H. S. Add New Math. and Gym Teacher

The Antioch high school teaching force has been increased by one member this year. Miss Watts, a graduate of Beloit college, Beloit, Wis., whose home is in Chicago, arrived the first of the week to teach mathematics and physical education. The additional teacher was necessitated by the fact that the classes in Field Corps and Chemistry are so large that it was necessary to divide both. This gave four additional class periods and necessitated a new division of classes and the employment of a mathematics teacher.

DOUBLE LOSSES ARE LOT OF ANTIOCH TEAM

Old Man Jinx Hands Game Aplee To Barrington and Silverlake Baseball Aggregations

Antioch's baseball aggregation suffered defeat twice within the week, when the Labor day game went to Barrington by an 8 to 4 score, and the last game Sunday showed an 8 to 3 score in favor of Silver Lake.

The jinx in the Labor day game kept under cover until the eighth inning when the brilliant pitching of W. Steinger cracked and the Barrington team got away with a four run lead which Antioch in their half of the last inning couldn't touch. The feature of the game was the pitching of Krause, Barrington's left-hander.

Silverlake 8; Antioch 3.

In the Silver Lake game Antioch took the lead in the second inning with two scores. A single run in each of the next two innings evened up the score for Silverlake and the score stood 2 all until the 8th inning which proved fatal for the local outfit. Art Steinger, pitching for Antioch, showed up well, but four hits and a flock of errors gave the northerners six runs and the ball game.

Lakes of Region Are Stocked With Fish

Channel, Catherine and other lakes of the chain have been stocked with fish and more will be stocked soon, through the efforts of the officials of the Channel, Catherine and Marie Improvement association.

Officers of that organization made arrangements with Wm. J. Stratton, chief of the conservation department of Illinois, to procure the fish from the state hatchery at Spring Grove, and C. K. Anderson and H. J. Vos went over last Friday and brought back a truck load each, which they planted in Channel Lake and Lake Catherine. Each truck load comprised 50,000 fish ranging in size from minnows to four inch fish. They are bass, pickerel, perch, sunfish and rock bass.

Ray Pregoner procured a truckload also, which he put into the waters at Grass Lake, and 10,000 are to be placed in Little Silver Lake.

Others who wish fish this fall can procure them from the Spring Grove hatchery by making arrangements with the officials of the Channel, Catherine and Marie Improvement association, and by going after the fish themselves.

This is the first time in many years that the waters of the lakes in the region have been stocked with fish.

tended, and to this end I shall do all in my power to assist them.

"Realtor Scheme Is Bunk"—Weiss

"That's the bunk; absolutely nothing to it," said Mr. Weiss when he was cited newspaper stories and told of rumors to the effect that ambitious realtors were back of the project. He had not heard these reports he said, but he was not in the least perturbed and dismissed the subject with the remark that there is always a certain amount of that kind of work done by busybodies. "It's to be expected," he said.

Gene, In Fighting Trim For Battle, Loafs With Elite on Lake Shore

Fighters who do not slout their stuff daily in training camp and can not be persuaded to knock out a few obdurate sparring partners for the edification of the gentry of the press have aroused the ire of the gentlemen of that persuasion this week.

Two reasons are advanced why Dempsey, the redoubtable challenger, is not obliging. One, he is too good; the other, he is not so good. To these two reasons two more are added in considering the case of the champion; third, the process servers with the low idea that Gene ought to split at least one corner of the winnings with them are causing the fighting marine to retire to the solitudes with a book or two; and fourth, that the lure of high society makes him unwilling to oblige.

At any rate, the champion, after a two days' sojourn at the country estate of Gordon Kelly at Lake Forest, during which time the process servers are said to have been in evidence at the home camp, returned to Cedar Crest this morning for a scheduled boxing bout.

Billy Gibson, Tunney's genial manager, yesterday issued a statement in which he said there was no reason for over-doing the training, especially in the intense heat, since Tunney was already in first class condition and needed only sufficient exercise to keep his muscles loose.

Meanwhile the ticket sale of "ring-side" seats for the big show one week from tonight goes merrily on, and the proceeds promise to be the greatest in all history. The title bout has been referred to as "Tex Rickard's $3,000,000 cauliflower party."

Wonder what a heavyweight champion, or near champion, thinks about at the zero hour.

NEW TEACHER IS ADDED TO GRADE SCHOOL FACULTY

Additional Room and New Equipment Improve Facilities.

The Antioch Grade School will have much in the way of new equipment for their work this year. An increased enrollment in the primary grades has made necessary the division of the group into two assemblies and the erection of a second grade building.

The building to house the second grade was completed and the students, with their teacher, Miss Elizabeth Tontou, moved into it on Monday. The new room is 20 x 30 with a row of windows across the entire side. A communicating hallway joins the building to the primary room of the main building and an outside doorway affords a separated entrance. Lights have been installed and the sand table and desks used last year in the primary room have been moved to the 2nd grade room. Blackboards will be put in soon and a new teachers desk will complete the equipment of the room.

In the primary room work tables with chairs to match, each table accommodating two children and equipped with two small drawers have replaced the old formal desks. They are movable and can be put to one side for primary activities. A new sand table has also been installed. A new Mitchell Merry Go Round, accommodating 50 children at one time, completes the equipment for the little folks.

New Teacher for Music and Upper Grades

Miss Dorothy Patterson of Racine, will assist in the upper grades and will have charge of music throughout the school. Miss Patterson is a graduate of Milwaukee Normal and comes to her work in the Antioch schools very highly recommended. Regular music classes twice a week will be organized in each room. In addition, Miss Patterson will teach reading for seventh and eighth grade students, seventh grade history, seventh grade spelling and seventh grade geography.

Changes in Texts and Circula.

Some changes have been made in the circula. A new method has been inaugurated in spelling throughout the school. The new system is devised so that the pupils' effort will be centered upon the words in the lesson that he can spell rather than upon every word equally. The Werner arithmetics, previously in use in the upper grades, have been changed for the Pilot texts, a new series adapted to the needs of the present day.

Each room has been furnished with a new steel cabinet for the storage of supplies so that materials in use in each room will be available at all times without disturbance.

Several new pictures have been added this year. Two were furnished by the Parent-Teachers' association, one "Columbus' Flagship," is to be used as an attendance award picture, and the other, "Pioneer Days," for the opportunity room. "Where the Sun Goes," a study in Indian life, the gift of the promotion class of 1927, has arrived and is hung in the 7th and 8th grade room. "The Shepherd Boy" and "The Fairies" are new pictures in the 3rd and 4th grade rooms.

Heat Proves Hindrance.

193 students, the largest group ever enrolled, entered the grade schools last week and work is well under way although the unreasonable weather of last week and this has hampered the students and teachers and made the new addition to the grade school uninhabitable.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hopkins and Miss Ruby Hopkins and George Hopkins spent Sunday at Roscoe visiting friends there.

The largest plant in the world manufacturing telephone cable is located in Illinois. It uses 170,000,000 pounds of paper, lead and copper annually.

BOMBERS ADD NEW CHAPTER TO McHENRY CO. BOOZE SCANDAL

Rumor that Pouse Will Return Is Unconfirmed. Forty To Be Indicted.

Another chapter in the political melodrama occurring in McHenry county was written Wednesday morning when bombs blew away the front porch and part of the front of the home of Dan Welke of Woodstock. The family, all of whom were in bed, escaped without injury, although the blast was such a powerful one that it shook the entire town and was heard for several miles. Welke stated that he knew no reason for the attack.

Meanwhile the McHenry county grand jury, empaneled last May, was recalled yesterday by Judge Edward D. Shurtliff and ordered to begin its own investigation of the bootlegging situation exposed by the disappearance of State's Attorney Alfred H. Pouse some time ago.

Return of Pouse Is Rumored.

Rumors that Pouse would return and give himself up to the McHenry county authorities were credited yesterday by some of the daily newspapers, but as yet such reports can not be confirmed.

That the McHenry county state's attorney had contemplated the step for some little time was evident from the fact that he devoted over his property to his dependents before his disappearance. Vanishing on the eve of the day set for the trial of two score bootleg and slot machine cases, Pouse left letters to his wife and two of his fellow lawyers with whom he was on friendly terms, stating that he was innocent but stating that he thought it impossible to prove his innocence. The letter to his wife said among other things, "I will never return."

Federal officials have announced that they will conduct an investigation. In spite of the fact that the McHenry county jury is reported to be contemplating the indictment of forty persons, including the missing state's attorney.

Local Bankers Attend Tourney at Glen Flora

E. Elmer Brook and Frank Kamin of the State Bank, and C. K. Anderson, S. Hoyer Nelson and R. C. Abt of the First National Bank, together with J. J. Morley, Ray Pregoner and H. J. Vos, attended the Bankers' tournament at the Glen Flora golf club at Waukegan Wednesday afternoon. Thirty-six players took part in the tournament. C. K. Anderson of the Antioch First National, captured the second score, bringing back a score of 82 over a strange course with only two 81's ahead of him.

Mr. Brook, of the State Bank, tied for first honors in the tournament with Mr. Webb of Waukegan.

EXCESSIVE HEAT WAVE BROKEN BY SHOWERS EARLY IN AFTERNOON

Mercury Reaches To New Record as Midwest People Swelter For Five Days.

Local showers beginning at 12:30 today beat the weather man to it and brought relief from the scorching heat of the day. . . .

That Antioch and the Mid-west will obtain relief sometime Friday from the sweltering weather of the past five days was the assurance of U. S. weather forecaster, Prof. Henry J. Cox last evening. "A cool area, said the professor, "is developing in the Canadian northwest and this region will obtain relief over the week end."

The heat wave will sweep eastward, according to Prof. Cox, and the sea-board will get a taste of the weather we are now enduring.

The torrid wave, which is holding the entire midwest, from southern Missouri to Canada and from the Alleghenies to the foothills of the Rockies in its grip, struck Antioch Sunday and has brought with it record high temperatures for the month of September. Coming behind a drought of two months duration, broken only by one rain last week, the intense heat has caused untold damage to crops and a vast amount of discomfort to all.

Beginning last Saturday the mercury climbed steadily until it reached on Monday the unprecedented high mark for September at 95 degrees. It has since hovered between 95 as a daytime temperature and 79 degrees, the lowest point reported since Sunday.

Reports of loss of life have come from the congested areas, Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City and many other cities reporting one or more deaths. Schools in the cities have been shut down and the local grade school commenced today on a half day schedule with sessions starting at 8:00 o'clock.

City papers report an exodus out of the city of all those fortunate enough to afford a return to the resort regions and find it possible to leave business interests for cooler areas.

Increased traffic into the lake region has been very noticeable.

Pikeville Farm Fire Results in $6500 Loss

Fire resulting from a gasoline engine in the milk house at the Kelly farm, occupied by Wm. Dorsey, two miles east of Pikeville, resulted in a heavy loss Monday. Besides the loss of the buildings, including the barn, silo, milk house, and granary, the loss to Mr. Dorsey amounted to about $1,500. The buildings were valued in excess of $5,000.

Mr. Dorsey had started the engine in the milk house and had gone to the field. Upon his return sometime later he found the milk house in flames. By the time communication was established with a neighbor a mile away, the barn was on fire and the flames were beyond control when the Antioch fire dept. arrived. The well was located so near the barn that it was impossible to use it and the house well was pumped dry very quickly.

Losses included 50 tons of hay stored in the barn and three big stacks of hay and some straw outside, also 1000 bushels of oats, some of which was saved from the fire, although not in a salable condition.

Cement Work on Routes 60 and 61 Under Way

The first batch of cement was poured last week on routes 60 and 61 of the Ringwood - McHenry road. Grading and culvert work is proceeding at a rapid rate ahead of the cement mixer and the contractors plan to have all of the preliminary work done and at least four miles of cement poured this fall. The work is being done by the S. and H. construction company of Milwaukee. It is not anticipated that the road in the vicinity of Richmond will be finished until next spring.

Miss Kathryn Dorsey and Wm. Haddon and Miss Vera Paasch and Ed Babor attended the fair at Elkhorn last Monday.

The RECLUSE of FIFTH AVENUE

by WYNDHAM MARTYN

THE STORY

CHAPTER I.—From the comfortable social situation to which he had been born, Peter Milman, American gentleman of the old school, and last of his family, is practically reduced to pauper through the misfortune of a friend, Neeland Barnes, whom he had unwittingly trusted.

CHAPTER IV.—Milman explains to his guests how, chiefly through his belief in Floyd Malet as a great sculptor and the victim of malicious circumstances, he had subscribed to a pre-arranged bureau and kept a detective on Malet's track, learning much to his discredit, though nothing by which he could be reached legally. Milman's impoverished through Malet's financial crookedness, Milman proposes an association of the four men—ad association outside the law—which shall pull down Malet and force him to disgorge his ill-gotten financial gains.

CHAPTER II.—Learning of Barnes' scheme, which means the destruction of his last hope, Milman engages a French butler, Achille Lorry, who speaks to him in a rapid, almost incomprehensible, but long standing, by Lorry, Milman sends letters to Prof. Fleming, Bradney, Floyd Malet, and Neeland Barnes, men whom the world has classed as failures, once of high position. In response, the three call on him at his home.

CHAPTER III.—After an excited dinner Milman ushers his guests into his Japanese garden, where, after each has related the circumstances which wrecked their careers, he convinces them their misfortunes are directly traceable to the machinations of an unscrupulous enemy, a man who has risen to high social position and political power by underhand methods, chiefly blackmail, Paul Haxon. Haxon also ruined Bradney, and incidentally Milman.

CHAPTER V.—Following Milman's disclosures, his three guests, after a consultation, practically decide to join him in the fight against Paul Haxon. Milman explains the details of his life which he has gleaned from Herman Loddon, Haxon's tool on occasions when wine has loosened Loddon's tongue.

"Darling daddy!" she cried, throwing her arms around his neck.

"Nita," he said, stroking her hair, "how I have longed for you! But, my dear, how is it you are here?"

"I ran away," she confessed. "They said such utterly beastly things about you I couldn't stand it. How well you look, daddy. I shall call you my big brother. Nobody will believe you're my father. What makes you stay in such a funny place as this? Suddenly she caught sight of Lippsky. "Who is that dreadful little creature?"

Lippsky spoke up distinctly. "I own this house, and I've come for the rent. If he don't pay, he goes to sleep in the village jail. I guess he don't mind. I guess it ain't for the first time. He ain't got no money. You say he's your father." Lippsky grinned. "Well, you got the chance to save your daddy from jail."

"Dad," she whispered, "I hadn't any idea it was as bad as this. I've only three dollars left. The boat trip took all my savings."

"My dear girl," he said easily, "the man is known widely as the village idiot. Nobody believes him. It does happen that my rent is due. By the way, how much is it?"

"Ninety dollars eighty cents," "I rather thought it was more," said Barnes. He took out a roll of bills and paid. He was left with seven dollars. His reward came in the relief the girl showed.

"It's a bad of mine staying up here," he admitted. "The air is good and I've been in training. I shall leave now. I think we'll go to New York as soon as possible. How lovely you look. You have those unforgettable violet eyes of your mother, but you are taller." The thought that he had nowhere to take her made him miserable, but he would not let her see it. It was incomprehensible to him that the countess of Horaham, his late wife's eldest sister, had allowed her niece to come. The countess had always been his enemy.

"It came to a point," the girl said when they were in a New York-bound train, "when I was asked to drop my own name and take my mother's. Not that I minded being Nita Fessenden, except that it seemed as though I were publicly ashamed of you. I simply refused. There were awful rows. So I ran away. I was twenty-one and my own mistress. I sent all the jewels and presents back and started to earn my living."

"Nita," he cried with admiration in his look, "how could you possibly do what I've always failed in?"

"It wasn't easy at first," she admitted, "but I stuck it out and made enough money in secretarial work to come out to my own country second cabin. I tried to find you six months ago, but the silly elusiveness returned all your letters."

Neeland Barnes colored. "Must have mistook the address," he said; "d-d careless of them. I shall report it." He wondered how she had run him to earth.

"When I got to New York I phoned the Knickerbocker. I knew it used to be your favorite club. I told the secretary, or whoever it was, that I was your daughter and simply had to find you, and they told me to call up later. When I did they said you lived in Peekskill. I spent three hours looking and then that village idiot locked me in."

She did not tell him that naturally she had started her search expecting to find him in one of the better sections of the charming Hudson-side city. The Lippsky cottage on the outskirts had been a dreadful shock. But the search was over and she was happy. She was very proud of him. Her aunt had drawn the picture of a decrepit, vice-ridden physical wreck. Instead he was vigorous, clear-skinned and agile.

"Where are we going, daddy?" she demanded, after she had passed Sing Sing's embattled walls.

"I'm staying with Peter Milman," he answered. "Lady Horaham may have mentioned him."

"I remember. His wife ran away and he shut himself up in his house and went mad."

"That is just what your aunt would say," he returned. "He did not go mad. He happens to be the best friend I have, and I shall ask him to let you stay the night there. Much better than a stuffy, noisy hotel."

"And tomorrow we'll get a cozy little flat. I've often wanted to look over the treetops into Central park."

"I'm afraid cozy little flats on Fifth avenue where you were born aren't exactly within my means. The view is just as pretty from Central Park west."

"Growned to think they were just as difficult to obtain."

"Anything you like," she said happily.

Peter Milman and his two guests had finished dinner and were in the large drawing room when Achille came in with the news that Neeland Barnes had returned with a lady!

Bradney looked at Malet and shook his head. It was in Bradney's mind that Barnes had spent his money on liquid refreshment and had so far forgotten himself as to seek to introduce a lady friend to a bachelor establishment. He could see that Peter Milman was much disturbed.

A moment later Neeland Barnes was introducing a very pretty, gracious girl with charming speaking voice as Anita Barnes newly come from England. Peter Milman's annoyance was banished momentarily as he thought of the ramifications of his family tree. The girl must be, remotely, a distant cousin. He greeted her with distinguished courtesy and introduced the other men to her.

"Most extraordinary," Neeland Barnes began. "Entirely unlooked for. I feel as if I had come in for a fortune." He smiled at his daughter. "I have, and that's a fact. She has been living with her aunt in England."

"Till I couldn't stand it any longer," Nita informed them.

Her father was greatly troubled. Circumstances, as he would presently explain to Mr. Milman, had compelled him to bring his long-lost daughter here. But what he had to say could not be said in her presence.

"I wonder," he said ingenuously, "whether Mr. Malet would mind showing you the Japanese garden. You'll be simply crazy over it, especially the 'Stone of the Unfortunate Burglar.' Mr. Malet understands these things so much better than I do." He winked ponderously at the sculptor. He tried to convey the impression that he must speak privately with his host.

"A Japanese garden?" she cried. "How delightful. Please, Mr. Malet, show me its wonders."

"Look here," said her father when she had gone. "I couldn't help this. They made things so hard for her that she ran away. She had an idea I was sick and in need of her. She actually earned her passage money. The first of my breed to earn money! She was waiting at Peekskill for me. Lippsky saw his chance and made the most of it. I had to pay everything. You see now penniless again. She thinks I am staying here overnight and will take an apartment on Central park tomorrow." He looked appealing at the two men. "Could I help it? I had to bring her here. She has nothing left. The Barnes breed of cattle's not economical. Here we are beggars, outcasts in our own city."

"Neither beggars nor outcasts for three months—at least—" Peter Milman said cheerfully. "Of course, your daughter must remain here. It will be pleasant to have someone young and beautiful with us." He lowered his voice a little. "She must never suspect what brings us all here. It can be supposed that we are engaged in some promotion concerning oil." He put his hand on Barnes' shoulder with a friendly gesture. "I envy you. I am going to see that a room is prepared for her."

Barnes looked at Bradney when the door was closed.

"Outside here," he said, "in the world which calls itself society, Peter Milman has the name of being a scoundrel and a disgrace to his name. I ask you, as man to man, if you've ever run across anyone more considerate? My God, Bradney, if you knew the sort of life I've led since that trouble at Saratoga trying to keep my end up when my people had dropped me and my old pals cut me dead, you'd understand just what this means. I'm going the limit for Peter Milman. You've just seen how he saved me from another humiliation. I should have had to tell my girl her father was such an utter failure he couldn't even get her a room in a cheap hotel."

"I know how you must feel," Bradney commented.

"We've got to get the money out of Raxon," Barnes went on, "even if I'm the goat and end up in Sing Sing. Frankly, Bradney, I'm not much of an original thinker. I can carry out another man's conception absolutely and add a few improvements of my own, but I look to people like you and Malet to dope out the plans first."

Bradney stirred a little uneasily. He saw that the man of action was looking to him for guidance. The more ardently Bradney desired to pull down Paul Haxon, the more difficult the task seemed. This move of the financier to Great Rock had nullified most of the laborious details garnered by Peter Milman concerning the vacated home in Short Hills.

In New Jersey the domestic arrangements had been on a simple plan and the servants few. In the Long Island mansion much greater style was kept up. There were extensive grounds and many outdoor servants.

"I'm afraid you must not look for much help from me," Bradney said. "Milman has assured me absolutely that it is to Haxon I owe my downfall. He has literally stolen my existence. Yours, too, and poor Malet's also. If I had accepted a bribe disguised as a usual form of commission, I should probably have been what the world terms a great man today. If you had not been afraid your aged aunt would see you in an altercation concerning a roof-garden actress, you would not have been disgraced. Had Malet possessed a less generous nature, he would have been talked of in a breath with Rodin. Raxon, Raxon everywhere. Let me tell you I'm just as ready to go the limit as you are. As a matter of simple fact, we were looking to you to make the first concrete suggestion."

"That scoundrel Lippsky drove every idea from my mind," Barnes confessed, "but we have plenty of time." He stopped short at his daughter came in with Floyd Malet. What a beauty she was, he thought affectionately, and how gracefully she carried herself. Breeding in every line of her! Then the thought of his financial inadequacies came to him like a dull pain. What had he to offer? Nothing. A few months' respite and a new life would offer itself. What would that be? He did not like to think. To live for the day was a Barnes motto. He hoped Peter Milman had, indeed, some definite working plan. If it were only a matter of wading through the Haxon men servants and beating their master it would be simple. He had not in his past been noted for subtleties, and laborious, slow processes soon wearied him.

Nita slipped her arm into that of her tall, handsome father.

"Don't look so glum," she chided. She was in very good spirits. The shock of the Lippsky episode had been forgotten when she entered this unique home. She could associate neither failure nor poverty with any of the men beneath its roof. She was curious to know what had brought them together here. It was difficult to conceive of her father as a successful business man. Lady Horaham had often declared few men had been offered such opportunities and made less of them than Neeland Barnes.

By adroit questioning of the four who leaped their secret. They were engaged in promoting a company to operate in the Torrence oil field in south California.

"How interesting!" she cried. "As it happens, I know a lot about oil companies and their way of doing business. You see, my last position in London was as secretary to Sir John Crowhurst, chairman of the Persian-Bagdad Oilfields, Limited."

"You!" cried her astonished father, and then suddenly remembered the thousands of words she could take a minute.

"Yes. Me. Really it was tremendous luck, but I was the only girl in the business school that sent me there who could write as well in French as in English. We had a great many stockholders in Paris. It was rather jolly being his secretary. Sir John was one of those quiet, clever men, like Mr. Milman, who deal in millions. I may look like you, daddy, but I've the business brains of my mother's people. Let me do your correspondence for you."

"Later, I see we shall have to take you into our confidence," Mr. Milman said, smiling. "At present we do not want anything known. You understand the need for caution?"

"Oh, rather," said the former secretary of Sir John Crowhurst. "It was because of an overheard conversation that we lost the Bogotan fields, which are tremendously valuable." But she did not leave the subject. To the four men she seemed an eager, pretty girl who had been by accident near enough to oil to catch a little of its tedium. They were in love with her when she bade them good night.

"Well," said Bradney when she had gone, "for amateurs you did pretty well. I envied you your flights of fancy."

"A woman has not dined in this house for over ten years," said Peter Milman. "I might have had a daughter of her age now. Barnes, there is another reason for our need to succeed. She must marry well."

Uneasily Barnes thought of the possibility of his daughter having for a father one who wore stripes at his state's expense. "Yes," he agreed soberly.

LOCATING THE FINANCIAL LEAKS THAT TAKE THE PROFITS OUT OF FARMING

By DAN H. OTIS

Director, Agricultural Commission, American Bankers Association

INDUSTRIAL lines suffer because of inefficient firms, whose officers cling to old methods and place goods on the market, even at a loss, to compete with the more efficient institutions. Agriculture, too, has this problem to face. We find farmers who fight new methods. They retard the prosperity of other farmers by throwing on the market poor quality products, frequently produced at a loss.

D. H. OTIS

The nature of the banker's business places him in a position to help this type of farmer as well as the more progressive farmer. At the same time the banker can assure himself of good loans based on the farm as a going concern.

A study of the investments, sources of income and expenses of the successful farmers in his community will give the banker a measuring stick by which to gage the hazard entailed in furnishing loans to other farmers. This study is readily accomplished through the use of summaries of farm records. In the absence of good records, survey blanks which can be obtained from the agricultural colleges, may be used for collecting the information.

A banker in a dairy district would use data similar to Farmer A's summary in the following table as a measuring stick to judge the condition of Farmer B:

	Farmer A	Farmer B
Farm receipts	$5,465	$2,214
Farm expenses	2,122	1,079
Receipts above expenses	$3,343	$1,135
Interest on total investment @ 5 per cent.	1,070	889
Net income after deducting interest	$2,273	$246
Acres	127	180
Total investment	$21,400	$19,773
Operating capital (machinery, livestock, equipment)	5,852	4,472
Number of cows	18	11
Investment in cows	$2,302	$1,205

The total investment of Farmer A is moderate with a large percentage (27 per cent) of operating or working capital. Farmer B is low in operating capital. The number of cows is also low, which is reflected in the farm receipts, these being $3,251 less than those of Farmer A. The expenses of Farmer B, although about one-half of those of Farmer A, are, nevertheless, high in the ratio to receipts.

The only way to safeguard a loan to Farmer B is to consider assets and not income. Before any loan should be considered at all the banker and the farmer should go over the situation, uncover the leaks and outline a definite program of improvement.

Diversity of Business Good Sign

	Farmer A	Farmer B
Income from crops	$1,476	$851
From dairy products	2,343	752
Sale of livestock (including increased inventory)	1,658	280
Miscellaneous income	827	161

A good diversity of income serves to protect the farmer against years of over-production of any one farm product. Farmer A has a good diver-

Silica in Commerce

The geological survey says that silica occurs in nature as a mineral of economic importance in quartz, sand, etc. Good grades of silica are used for glass making. It may also be used in paint, as a wood filler, a wood polisher; in the manufacture of china and porcelain, as an abrasive, a scouring and cleansing agent, and as a heat and sound insulator.

Anger and Malice

Anger is blood poured and perplexed into froth; but malice is the wisdom of our wrath.—Sir W. Davenant.

To invest in the same type of cow. This poor farmer must weed out his poor cows and feed the balance properly to get results before money is loaned to him to increase his herd with good stock.

An analysis of the farmer's records will bring out many other leaks which the farmer may not have noticed. He may be paying high prices for feed when less money spent for fertilizers and lime may enable him to raise the right kind of feed on his own farm and stop this drain on his pocket-book.

Harring temporary emergencies, farm loans handled on the basis of income, indicating a going concern, would hasten tremendously the day of a permanent and prosperous agriculture.

Grayslake Fire Depr. Holds Benefit Picnic

Synthetic Rubber

During the World war when Germany was cut off from supplies of crude rubber a great effort was made to produce synthetic rubber. The industry ceased at the close of the war.

Named for Englishman

The town of Amherst, Mass., was named by Governor Pownall, when it was incorporated in 1766, in honor of Lord Amherst, who in that year had taken Ticonderoga from the French, and later served as commander in chief of the armies in America and as governor of Virginia. He did not found Amherst college, which is named simply for the town.

Franklin First Cartoonist

Rare Ben Franklin has been adopted as the patron saint of the cartoonists of America. It is claimed that he drew the first cartoon ever published in this country. He published it in his Pennsylvania Gazette May 9, 1764.

Old Kansas Settlement

Lawrence, one of the first places settled in Kansas, and now the seat of the state university, was named for Amos A. Lawrence, an eminent Boston merchant prominent in the affairs of the Massachusetts Emigrant Aid society.

HAPPENINGS OF WEEK
IN NEARBY TOWNS

Illigent laborers working at Pala line are presumed to be the cause of the spreading of smallpox in that locality. The schools of that region were all closed down last week and vaccination required of all students before they were allowed to return to school Monday.

Mrs. Myrtle Schande of Elkhorn, who was sentenced in February, 1924 to the state prison at Joliet for the poisoning of her husband, Edward Schande, and the attempt to poison her four children, was refused a pardon by Governor Fred Zimmerman last Thursday. This was second attempt to gain clemency from a governor of the state of Wisconsin.

Among the list of those mentioned to fill the post of county judge made vacant in Kane county last May by the death of Judge S. N. Hoover, is Miss Mary H. Bailey of Batavia. Miss Bailey was formerly a courtesan employee and for the past few years has been an assistant district attorney in Chicago. The candidates will be voted upon at the spring primaries next April.

The upper waters of the Fox river were stocked with 75 cans of minnows last week. The fish came from the state fish hatchery at LaCrosse and were planted in the river at the inland north of the Tschikan resort, in Lake Tschikan. All varieties made up the shipment, with pickered predominating.

A lone maniac who held up a cabman on one of Chicago's most crowded streets and demanded to be taken to North Chicago, created a panic which cleared the block at State and Dearborn of all traffic for a few minutes last Thursday.

The board of local improvements of Harrington Monday at their regular monthly meeting unanimously approved a petition for the installation of 10 ornamental lights in six streets in Sunnyside subdivision. The improvement involves the expenditure of $8,539. The ornamental light posts will be of concrete construction and will be 17 feet high, according to the resolution.

Fred Gebhardt, 47, of Chicago, was drowned at Rock Falls, near Trevor Gebhardt, in company with John Ehlson, also of Chicago, was fishing Sunday afternoon and in some unexplained accident fell out of the boat. The body was recovered after a seven hour search.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"SUBSTANCE" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, September 11.

The Golden Text was from I Cor. 2:3, "Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love him."

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Riches and honour are with me; yea, durable riches and righteousness. I build in the way of righteousness, in the midst of the paths of judgment; That I may cause those that love me to inherit substance; and I will fill their treasures." (Proverbs 8:18, 20, 21).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "As God is substance and man is the divine image and likeness, man should wish for, and in reality has, only the substance of good, the substance of Spirit, not matter. The belief that man has any other substance, or mind, is not spiritual and breaks the First Commandment, Thou shalt have one God, one Mind" (p. 301).

Repair Your
Fence Lines this Fall

YOU know how hard it is to find time in the busy Spring to fix your fences. Most always you have to neglect something else to do it. That's all off now. Do all your fence work this Fall when you have the time. How? Why with the old reliable Red Top Steel Fence Post. It takes all the time-wasting and difficulty out of this job and makes it easy for one man to do a big job of fence repairing or even build a lot of new fence in a day.

RED TOPS drive easily through the hardest soil just as fast as you can drive them. With the Red Top One-Man-Drive, you alone, can drive 200 to 300 posts a day—any day in the year. That's why it's so easy to repair or build fence with Red Top Posts.

Red Top
GUARANTEED
Steel Fence Posts

Come in and let us show you the points about this Red Top post. It's made of tough, springy railroad rail-steel—that's why it holds such a record for long service in the fence line.

Once you drive in a RED TOP alongside a rotting or broken wood post and attach the old fencing to it with the Red Top handy fastener, that particular post is there for more years than the fence will last. Come in and see these money-saving posts.

"Therefore when We Build, Let Us Think that We Build Forever"

—JOHN RUSKIN

WHEN Alexander Graham Bell spoke the first intelligible sentence over the telephone fifty-one years ago he laid the foundation of a monument that will stand forever.

Since then countless improvements have been made in the original instrument and Bell engineers and scientists are still engaged in studying, improving, and extending the range of communication, anticipating future demands—rounding out and perfecting the structure of a great public service.

EVERY telephone added to this system during the past ten years has required an average investment higher than for those installed ten years ago. This condition will apply to each telephone added for many years, if present prices hold. The company is powerless to control these advances.

some members have more than one project to exhibit from, the total number of projects of the members are 320. Two rooms of the high school building and a tent will hold the club exhibits.

Educational Exhibits Shown.

The Educational department under the direction of County Superintendent R. S. Hilenfeldt and Asst. County Superintendent will consist of nearly four hundred entries. Two hundred of the entries will be the same that won sixth place for an educational booth for Kenosha County at the State Fair under the supervision of Mr. and Mrs. Hilenfeldt.

Many companies are listed for machinery row, amongst them being The Case, International, John Deere, and Rumley. Two tents have been reserved for automobiles and with the possibility of one of the new Fords being on exhibition these tents will maintain their usual popularity. The Wisconsin Gas and Electric Co. are reserving an entire tent for their display. Another tent will be erected for the use of Kenosha merchants who show at the fair yearly.

Every day the following entertainment will be offered: The famous passenger pilot Alexander A. Dukelt will appear daily in a brand new silver Waco double seated plane and every day will thrill the fair crowd with a series of aerial antics. He will also have the exclusive passenger carrying privileges during the fair. The plane will be very near the fair grounds on the Wood farm.

Horse shoe pitching contests will be staged daily. There is a strong possibility of a pony ring for the children while the Merry Go Round will be an assured fact. The boys and girls will be able to enter the eating contests and running races every afternoon as in former years. Winners will be given appropriate awards.

Something novel in a cow calling contest has been arranged by the Blue Valley Creamery Co. All contestants will compete the first day and the second the ten best will compete. The winner of the second contest will be privileged to enter the National Cow Calling contest in Chicago.

Sunny Jim, the Rubie, a free attraction, will travel the grounds four hours daily causing great merriment by his clever antics. A second free attraction to appear every afternoon and evening on the band platform will be the Three Red Caps. They will present one of the best acrobatic acts ever seen at Wilmet.

One of the best drawing attractions at the Fair will be the dinners the ladies of the Fair association will serve twice daily in the gymnasium dining room. A chicken dinner is one of the main features listed for Saturday noon.

The usual midway concessions have been arranged for, and there will be special features each day.

Young Men Fail In Bathing Beauty Pose

R. P. Schuler and Edwin Schuler, brothers, from Evanston, and more recently from a swim in Cedar Lake, made their bow to Judge Gelstrup Monday shortly after noon. The gentlemen apparently had conceived the idea that they would give the fair sex a treat and were strolling about town clad in bathing togs only. Motorcycle cop, Frank Valenta, called their attention to the fact that the were displaying their manly forms without the proper raiment as specified by edict of the village council and insisted upon by local authorities.

When his suggestion that they quietly efface themselves from the landscape was met with hilarity, they were given the alternative and had the privilege of "meeting the Judge."

Somewhat calmed by the experience, the pair assured the judge that they were unaware of such an ordinance and had no intention of offending. Judge Gelstrup was somewhat at a loss to find any reason why it was necessary to wear bathing suits four miles from the place where they had been swimming, that is, Cedar Lake.

"Where is your car?" said the magistrate.

On being assured that it was not far distant and that they knew how to get to it by the shortest possible route and with the least possible publicity, the judge let them go, advertising day and evening. Parade of Blue Ribbon stock at 2:30. A popular movie will be shown at the gymnasium at 8:00 o'clock.

Premium list may be obtained from the secretary of the fair board, C. H. Freeman of Bassetts. A membership ticket for the three days will entitle the holder to vote at the annual fair meeting.
